A Question We Are Always Ready To Answer.

FINANCIAL ARTICLE NO. 8.

WHY

Don't they (bankers and financiers) buy all the stock themselves, if the Phoenix is such a good money-making proposition, in what a great many people ask, when we speak of our director list and the immense financial standing of this company. This question has been asked us thousands of times, and whenever we find a man who is interested sufficiently to ask these pertinent points we know that he wants some stock. It is the one question above all others that shows his interest in the matter and that he is also a thinking man.

First: We would not allow them to buy all of the stock.

2d: If our directors and large financiers and bankers took all of the stock, who would borrow the money? Do you suppose they are in the banking business to borrow money from themselves? No.

3d: In offering the same inducements to the small shareholder as to the large and giving an equitable distribution of the profits to all, we are extending our field of operations for loans, which is the life of the business. A great many people save up for a few years until they have sufficient, with what money they obtain from us, to buy a house and lot for themselves and own it complete in a few years more.

4th: If you were a stockholder in any one of the good banks in the United States would you advise a man to go to a different bank if he should ask you regarding a deposit or a loan? No. Well, then, why should not the shareholders of the Phoenix throw all their influence towards their own company, when they know that it increases their dividends, rather than throw it somewhere else or nowhere at all?

5th: The best advertisement that we can get is the selling of this stock to such a large number of people (up to a certain limit) as the fact of being able to buy co-operative bank stock on installments is something the average man seldom thinks about until it is brought to his attention by our manager and method of doing so, and he, in turn, would not throw anything in the way of someone else taking the stock. Don't you think so?

6th: The distribution of the stock of this company over such a large area of territory to such a large number of individuals in small lots. No maturity of any large amount being due at the same time (all being due at different dates) make it far safer for all concerned than if the money was placed by a small number of individuals in large lots, and such a large quantity due at one time would force or compel us to keep cash on hand which would be idle and not earning anything (something we avoid always), and would also make us not so safe as we are.

7th: The distribution of this stock over such a large area of territory gives us also a distributive class of loans, so that if dull times should come in one more territory the good times in another would more than overbalance it. This keeps money from lying idle (a point we watch very closely), and at the same time prevents any quantity of property where we have loans from coming back on our hands.

There is only one way to accomplish the above results, and that is, to give each member as much of the profits as the other. Are you satisfied with the answer?

We should answer in connection with this question, what is the object of these large financiers and bankers putting up their money to guarantee against loss, etc? They are certainly not doing it for philanthropy, although large financial movements and institutions of any kind have a good many philanthropic ideas and are in a position to put them before the public, so that the public can carry them out with a little effort on their part if they are so inclined. In article 10 we will answer the question above as to why our directors and managers offer such a good proposition to the people.

Wouldn't you like to be a partner in this financial institution with the men whose names are at the end of Article 9, and also know that they are managing and handling your money by the side of their own? They have been singularly successful in their lines of business, and don't you think that the judgment of competent and successful men is better than the judgment of an individual successful man (if you have been a successful man). If you have not been successful, why not try some one of the several classes of our stock, which, in a few years, will give you a competency sufficient to place you in a better position than you are now. Class A stock, sixty cents a share, payments limited to one hundred. (Soon to be withdrawn). Another stock to take the place of Class A, 70 cents per share (ten different options on this class of stock). Class B, pre-paid, $60 per share, 5 per cent cash interest semi-annually may be withdrawn, if desired. If not withdrawn it is estimated that it will reach par value between 5-1-2 or 6 years. Class C, $100 per share 6 per cent interest guaranteed, payable semi-annually (same as a bond). All of the above are secured by first mortgage on improved (houses and lots) city and town real estate distributed over the entire Pacific Coast and Honolulu. Each mortgage that is made has a stated portion of interest and principal to be paid monthly, thereby increasing the value of the original mortgage, and reducing what the borrower owes. You have a partnership, as a stockholder, in the assets of the above, and are guaranteed in addition absolutely against loss by the Reserve Fund of $100,000.00 and a stated portion of its earnings, also by the State law of California under which we operate, also by having these securities deposited with a reliable Trust Company, and best of all, they are non-negotiable and cannot be assigned by us.

You like to have an ownership in any one of the good banks of the U. S.?

Would you like it more if you could buy an ownership on the installment plan if you did not care to pay it up at once?

Would you like it still more if you knew that you could earn 6 per cent upwards, according to the length of time your investment remained with this Financial Institution?

Would you like it very much more if you knew that the Directors and Managers guaranteed you (which they do) against any possible loss, by setting aside a large non-withdrawable reserve fund, principally subscribed and paid in by themselves to protect your investment?

Would you like it a great deal more if you knew that the men whose names appear in these articles were managing (which they do) this Financial Institution? They have all been distinctly successful in their several lines of business.

Would you like to learn more of this Financial Institution? Then read these articles and investigate. REMEMBER THAT THE INTELLIGENT PERSON is always willing to investigate. Our most prominent and successful men owe much to their willingness to investigate even the smallest matter that pertains to their interest. If you are no saving money, you should do so. Would you like to know that we are compounding your interest monthly, if you invest with us? We are.

Reserved Fund Stock of $100,000.00 bears all losses of every kind, character and description.
$12.00 per month deposited for 100 months will produce $2,000.00.

The Phoenix Savings, Building and Loan Association offers you an opportunity of buying stock on installments if you do not wish to pay up in full.
